

CONTENTS

Foreword	MARION NESTLE	ix
Acknowledgments		xiii
Introduction	MELISSA L. CALDWELL	1
Food and Everyday Life after State Socialism
1. From Canned Food to Canny Consumers	YUSON JUNG	29
Cultural Competence in the Age of Mechanical Production
2. The Tale of the Toxic Paprika	ZSUZSA GILLE	57
The Hungarian Taste of Euro-Globalization
3. Self-Made Women	DIANA MINCYTE	78
Informal Dairy Markets in Europeanizing Lithuania
4. Tempest in a Coffee Pot	MELISSA L. CALDWELL	101
Brewing Incivility in Russia's Public Sphere
5. The Geopolitics of Taste	NERINGA KLUMBYTĖ	130
The "Euro" and "Soviet" Sausage Industries in Lithuania
6. A Celebration of Masterstvo	STAS SHECTMAN	154
Professional Cooking, Culinary Art, and Cultural Production in Russia

7. The Social and Gendered Lives of Vodka in Rural Siberia	KATHERINE METZO	188
Afterword. Turnips and Mangos	ELIZABETH CULLEN DUNN	206
Power and the Edible State in Eastern Europe
List of Contributors		223
Index		227