

Contents

	Author's Notes and Acknowledgments	xv
	About the Author	xxi
	Preface	1
Introduction	Twenty Million Opportunities to Buy	5
	Twenty Million Seconds: Shopper Time Is Mostly Wasted	8
	Time Is Money: Shopper Seconds per Dollar	10
	Leaving Money in the Aisles: The $80 Million Question	11
	Planning Our Trip	13
	Shopping Serengeti	20
	Endnotes	22
PART I	Active Retailing	23
Chapter 1	The Quick Trip: Eighty Percent of Shopper Time Is Wasted	25
	Three Shoppers: Quick Trip, Fill-In, and Stock-Up	26
	Rise of the Small Store	29
	Perils of Promotion	30
	The Big Head and Long Tail	31
	Heads You Win	34
	The Communal Pantry	36
	Layered Merchandising	38
	The Right Paths for the Right Shoppers	39
	Purchase Modes and Selection Paradigm	41
	Spending Faster	41
	Conclusion: Dual Chaos	43
	Endnotes	45
Chapter 2	Three Moments of Truth and Three Currencies	47
	Moments of Truth	48
	Seeing the Truth: Eyes Are Windows to the Shopper	50
	Reach: Impressions and Exposures	53

	Stopping Power (and Holding Power)	59
	Closing Power	60
	Three Currencies of Shopping: Money, Time, and Angst	62
	A Complex Optimization	66
	Endnotes	67
Chapter 3	In-Store Migration Patterns: Where Shoppers Go and What They Do	69
	If You Stock It, They Will Come	70
	Understanding Shopper Behavior	73
	First Impressions: The Entrance	75
	Shopper Direction: Elephant Herds	76
	The Checkout Magnet	79
	Products Hardly Ever Dictate Shopper Traffic— Open Space Does	79
	Managing the Two Stores	88
	Five Store Designs	90
	Where the Rubber Meets the Linoleum	94
	Endnotes	95
Chapter 4	Active Retailing: Putting Products into the Path of Shoppers	97
	Active Retailing	99
	Put the Right Products in the Path of Customers	100
	Double Conversion™: Converting Visitors to Shoppers to Buyers	100
	Packaging Must Play the Starring Role	102
	Holding Power—How Long Is Long Enough?	105
	Stopping and Closing Power: VitalQuadrant™ Analysis	106
	Playing the Niche	109
	Good Is the Enemy of the Great	111
	Endnotes	111
Chapter 5	Brands, Retailers, and Shoppers: Why the Long Tail Is Wagging the Dog	113
	Where the Money Is in Retail	114
	Massive Amounts of Data	115
	Shifting Relationships	117
	A Refreshing Change: Working Together to Sweeten Sales	118

	Beyond Category Management	120
	A New Era of Active Retailing: Total Store Management	121
	Pitching a Category's Emotional Tone More Precisely	126
	Retailers Control Reach	127
	The Urgent Need for Retailing Evolution	128
	Endnotes	130
PART II	Going Deeper into the Shopper's Mind	131
Chapter 6	The Quick-Trip Paradox: An Interview with Unilever's Mike Twitty	133
	Endnotes	145
Chapter 7	Integrating Online and Offline Retailing: An Interview with Professors Peter Fader (The Wharton School) and Wendy Moe (University of Maryland)	147
	Endnotes	159
Chapter 8	Multicultural Retailing: An Interview with Emil Morales, Executive Vice President of TNS Multicultural	161
	Endnotes	177
Chapter 9	Insights into Action: A Retailer Responds: An Interview with Mark Heckman of Marsh Supermarkets	179
PART III	Conclusions	189
Chapter 10	The Internet Goes Shopping	191
	Entering the VideoCart Age	192
	Cell Phone Invasion	193
	Implications for Retailers and Brand Owners	194
	The Power of Model Makers	195
	The Model Business	196
	A Fivefold Increase	196
	Endnotes	197

Chapter 11	Game-Changing Retail: A Manifesto	199
PART IV	Appendix	205
Appendix	Views on the World of Shoppers, Retailers, and Brands	207
	Excerpts from “Views from the Hills of Kentucky” by Robert Stevens	207
	Index	213