

Contents

Preface	5
Part I Global Recession of 2007-2009
Global Financial Crisis and Its Effects on Real Economies in the Light of Quantitative and Survey Data Elżbieta Adamowicz, Sławomir Dudek, Dawid Pachucki, Konrad Walczyk	11
Reasons Why Poland Avoided the 2007-2009 Recession Maria Drozdowicz-Bieć	39
Impact of Overdue Receivables on Economic Decisions of Enterprises Piotr Białowolski	67
Part II Methodological Aspects of Business Survey
Unobserved Component Model with Observed Cycle Use of BTS Data for Short-Term Forecasting of Industrial Production Sławomir Dudek, Dawid Pachucki	83
Non-response and Weighting Systems in Business Tendency Surveys: Are Expectations Influenced? Barbara Kowalczyk, Emilia Tomczyk	101
The Methods Used in Economic Tendency Research Sylwester Białowas	121
Part III Macroeconomic Analyses Based on Quantitative and Qualitative Data
Assessment of Composite Leading Indicators Usefulness in Forecasting Loans and Deposits Cyclical Fluctuations J. Garczarczyk, R. Skikiewicz	135
Consumer Confidence Indexes in New EU Member States Małgorzata Kokocińska, Jacek Jankiewicz	161
Modelling Inflation Using Markov Switching Models: Case of Poland, 1992 – 2005 Piotr Białowolski, Piotr Zwiernik, Dawid Żochowski	185